Fisherman Even Hauge sees huge success with Loppa 100: "We've Processed 30-50 Tons Weekly – Couldn't Do It Without the Machine!"

The HAVFRONT Loppa 100 is the world's most compact machine specifically designed for heading and gutting fish onboard vessels. This innovative and user-friendly machine enhances the efficiency of fish processing, making it an ideal solution for coastal fishing vessels from 9 meters, as well as larger sea-going vessels. Designed to handle mixed white-fish, the Loppa 100 is a reliable, efficient alternative to manual gutting and heading.

Capable of processing fish weighing between 1 and 12 kilograms the Loppa 100 offers a simple yet robust design, perfect for vessels looking to improve workflow and reduce labor-intensive tasks. The machine allows for quick and precise fish positioning, belly down between centering plates, with the bleed cut aligned over the transverse shaft. The cycle is activated by the user, during which the fish is headed and gutted. There is stepless adjustment for the heading angle and the length of the gut cut.

The HAVFRONT Loppa 100 is highly efficient, low-maintenance, and designed for long-lasting use, making it a cost-effective investment for vessels focused on improving productivity while minimizing manual labor.
